SMDK Corp. Files Intellectual Property Lawsuit

Bonita Springs FL – January 25, 2008 – SMDK Corp. (formerly SmartDisk Corporation) announced today that it has filed a complaint for patent infringement against eight companies in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas. The eight companies include Audiovox, Coby Electronics, Creative Labs/Creative Technology, Phison, Thomson (D/B/A RCA by Thomson), Seiko Epson (Epson), TIC Computer, Inc. (D/B/A Wolverine Data) and Vosonic Technology. This action alleges infringement of SMDK Corp.'s U.S. Patent Nos. 6,658,202 (which was awarded to SmartDisk on December 2, 2003) and 6,987,927 (which was granted to SmartDisk on January 17, 2006), that apply to portable digital multimedia products.

“These patents are our most valuable assets,” stated Michael S. Battaglia, President and Chief Executive Officer of SMDK Corp. “We are committed to protecting our intellectual property rights and intend to seek fair compensation from these companies for the use of our technology.”
